Close Shave For Big Gerry

FOOTBALL legend Gerry Armstrong got a pre Father's Day treat this week as he prepares to wind down for a summer of fun and special family time.

The former Northern Ireland sporting star, popped off a plane and headed straight for Jason Shankey's male grooming salon on the Lisburn Road to start of his holidays in style with a hot-towel-shave courtesy of grooming master Jason himself.

Gerry who now works in London and Spain as an international football commentator says,

“That’s me effectively now for a couple of months until the season kicks off again. It always takes a little bit of time to wind down – so I thought I would enjoy a bit of pampering – it is Father’s Day this weekend after all.”

The sporting hero says he is now looking to spending some quality time with his wife Debby and their two children Caitlin and Marianna in their Spanish holiday retreat.

“It has been a busy season and lots of travelling back and forward for me so I am really looking forward to being in the one place for awhile and just enjoying having my family around me.”

Jason Shankey says a grooming treat is the perfect Father’s Day present for busy and stressed out dads.

“Father’s Day is a good time for wives and partners out there to give their men a nudge in the right direction and treat them to something that little bit different. We are currently offering special gift voucher packages which include a hair cut and a hot towel shave for £40 at our Lisburn Road and Ballyhackamore salons.”
